Art Unit: 1623

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

A conclusion of lack of enablement means that, based on the evidence regarding each of the factors below, the specification, at the time the application was filed, would not have taught one skilled in the art how to use the full scope of the claimed invention without undue experimentation.

(A) The breadth of the claims.

The claims are directed to the compositions useful for the treatment or prevention of infection, inflammation and/or traumatic conditions.

The term "infection" encompasses all types of infections, including viral infections and bacterial infections. There are no known agents which are useful for the treatment of all types of infections, including viral and bacterial infections. Further, the terminology "prevention of infection", given its broadest reasonable interpretation consistent with the specification, merely requires that one such virus or bacteria gain entry into the cells of a host. Given that there are no compounds known that would be capable of prevention entry into every cell with 100% efficiency, there is good reason to doubt that the claimed compositions are useful in preventing infections.

Further, the terms "inflammation" and "traumatic conditions" encompass a very large number of conditions having different underlying causes.

Art Unit: 1623

(B) The state of the prior art.

Glucans are known immunostimulating agents (WO 95/30022).

(C) The amount of direction provided by the inventor.

The inventor has not provided any direction as to which specific infections, inflammation conditions or traumatic disorders were contemplated at the time the present invention was made.

(D) The existence of working examples.

No working examples are present in the specification.

(E) The quantity of experimentation needed to use the invention based on the content of the disclosure.

Because there is no way to predict priori for the prevention or treatment of which specific types of infections, inflammation and traumatic disorders, the claimed compositions would be useful, it would take an undue amount of experimentation to determine for the prevention or treatment of which specific conditions the claimed compositions would be useful.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hayen et al (WO 95/04467) or Rorstad et al (EP 0 466 037) or Engstad et al (WO 95/30022).

Art Unit: 1623

Hayen et al disclose the claimed compositions comprising 1,3 and/or 1,6 beta glucans (page 4) and also disclose said glucan compositions comprising vitamins (page 8).

Rorstad et al disclose the claimed composition comprising 1,3 and/or 1,6 beta glucans and in addition comprising other active agents such as vitamins (page 7, lines 35-58).

Engstad et al disclose the claimed composition comprising 1,3 and/or 1,6 beta glucans in particulate form (page 1).
